DiscussIT Topic 6: Where is our country headed?

Discuss IT Topic: Over the last week, our country has had growing concerns on immigration bans, border safety, and executive orders that remind us of issues that have been plaguing our country for years. Now that Trump has been elected President, there has been people threatening to blow up the White House, human right protests, and a plethora of other sensitive subject matters that are very compelling to individual groups of people. Why have these issues come up now as we head into a time in which it seems no one is going to be happy with the outcomes? Will this create a split in this country and place citizens against one another when it comes to their views? In your opinion, what other topics are at the forefront of concern? Explain...

Response: Please make sure all grammar, spelling, indentation, and punctuation is correct.

These issues have come up now because lots of people have become selfish, they are inserting lies in their heads. Most of us don't take the time to understand what's going on and why, we just listen to the media's brief intake of topics. I don't think we will split because America is a country of freedom and we hold these truths to be self-evident as said in the Declaration of Independence. We stick together even throughout all our differences, the U.S.A is like a quilt of different patches.

Silly topics like celebrity news are insignificant, what should be written is what is happening in the U.S.A. Kids nowadays don't even know what is going on, most are against Trump and think of him as a joke. The people who are threatening our government do not deserve that right, our country is a privileged home. I do believe you can be against a party, but it's not right to wish for destruction of someone/something.
